The Valley of the Sun

The History of Greater Phoenix

From 1850 through 1862, the area was part of the New Mexico Territory. The following year, it was made into the separate Arizona Territory consisting of the western half of the New Mexico Territory. In 1865, the United States established a military outpost called Camp McDowell northeast of the current city to protect the road between Tucson and the original capital in Prescott. In 1868, Jack Swilling, a miner, prospector and saloon owner along with his friend Darrel Duppa are recognized as the founders of Phoenix. Phoenix was incorporated in 1881 and was named the state capital of the Arizona Territory eight years later.

The name 'Phoenix' was proposed by Duppa who related back to the story of the rebirth of the mythical Phoenix from the ashes, the basis being the rebirth of a city of canals, rebuilt on the site of the ancient Hohokam canal systems that dated back to about 700-1400 AD. Phoenix became a trading and processing center once it was connected to the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe railroad lines.

In 1912, Arizona achieved statehood and became the 48th state and last of the contiguous states admitted to the Union. The population of Arizona grew steadily, but after WWII growth exploded. The introduction of air conditioning made the desert summers more tolerable. That, coupled with the region's mild winters, cold weather retirees flocked here. The city's business community annexed land, built massive, master-planned communities and welcomed new industries. In just 50 years, the city had grown from 100,000 persons to three million – half of the population of the entire state!

Arizona is one of the Four Corners states and is the largest landlocked U.S. state by population. In addition to the breathtaking Grand Canyon, many other national forest, parks, monuments and Indian reservations are located in the state.

In the warmer months, indoor air conditioning can get chilly for some, so be prepared with a lightweight jacket or sweater. Sunscreen to protect the skin is recommended year round. In the winter, a lightweight coat or jacket will usually suffice, unless you're planning to visit higher mountain areas where colder temperatures and snow are possible.

When it comes to attractions and entertainment, Phoenix is a major league town! The 2001 World Champion Arizona Diamondbacks Baseball Club, the 2008 and 2009 NFC West Division Champions Arizona Cardinals Football team, the Phoenix Suns of the NBA, the Phoenix Coyotes of the NHL and the Phoenix Mercury of the WNBA.

Next, college football's Fiesta Bowl, held in Sun Devil Stadium at Arizona State University, is a week-long December party and parade of top pigskin talent culminating in a key New Year's Day matchup.

In January, the PGA sanctioned Waste Management Phoenix Open held at the Tournament Players Club in Scottsdale, visits the Valley. The LPGA tourney, the Safeway International at Superstition Mountain, draws the world's best female golfers each March.

There's NASCAR, the Arizona State Fair, the Phoenix Zoo, Tempe Festival of the Arts, casino games and, of course, Spring Training Major League Baseball.

Each February, the Valley hosts nine separate ball clubs for Spring Training including the 1908 World Champion Chicago Cubs; the San Francisco Giants; Oakland A's; San Diego Padres; Seattle Mariners; Texas Rangers; KC Royals; Milwaukee Brewers; and the Los Angeles Angels of Anaheim. For six glorious weeks, day baseball under the sun rules. Players sign autographs. Volunteers grill brats. Tickets are cheap and all 7,000 seats have great sight lines.

Symphony Hall, the historic Orpheum Theatre and the Herberger Theater Center feature world-class opera, musicals, theatre and dance presentations. Nearly one half million persons visited these wonderful facilities last year.

Phoenix also has a world-class music scene. Each year, hundreds of rock, pop, country and hip hop acts play in dozens of large venues and small clubs throughout the Valley.

Then, there is art. The ASU Galleries and Collections, the Phoenix Art Museum, the Scottsdale Museum of Contemporary Art and Taliesin West (part of the Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation) highlight the Valley's cultural strength.

Finally, there are landmarks. The Arizona Biltmore Resort remains the "Jewel of the Desert" with its Frank Lloyd Wright design, gardens, swimming pools, gourmet dining and an inspired golf course. The Wrigley Mansion, in its seventh decade, is the former 16,000 square foot, 34-bedroom, 12-bath winter home of the chewing gum magnate. St. Mary's Basilica on North Third Street was founded in 1881 and is the oldest Catholic Church in Phoenix.

Communities

Phoenix

The heart of the Valley of the Sun, Phoenix is one of the best hubs in the entire Western United States. This is truly a city that understands how business, entertainment, tourism and education fuels economic growth. Surrounding the heart of the city are some of Maricopa County's oldest neighborhoods. Strong residential organizations make sure that the traditional look and feel of the area stays maintained.

Ahwatukee Foothills Village: A popular neighborhood separated from central Phoenix by South Mountain Park and Preserve. This area is well known for outdoor activities, awesome community festivals, great one-of-a-kind shopping and creative restaurant experiences. You'll see mostly clay tile roofs and southwestern architectural elements in each subdivision. Foothills residents definitely take advantage of the desert trails and bright Arizona sunshine as well as the four area championship golf courses. On top of it all, this area is part of the Kyrene School District which consistently places at the top of the academic chart in Arizona.

Anthem: North, just beyond the lights of Phoenix sit three award winning Anthem Communities - Anthem Country Club, the Anthem active adult community and comfortable family living at Anthem Parkside. A place where people live because of its 'neighborhood' feel and its incredible amenities that include the Anthem Community Center with enough things to keep the most active person busy the Anthem Water Park, Anthem Community Park with kid-sized railroad, AdventureLand Playground and a catch-and-release fishing lake! And don't forget the two Anthem golf courses, retail shops and restaurants!

Arcadia: Here's a wonderful place whose name does it justice. Large ranch-style homes, mature trees and charming, this desirable community is long on history and peacefulness.

Biltmore: This 20-block upscale neighborhood is a "second city" to Downtown. It's a major shopping, eating and business destination coupled with the cache of its namesake - the Arizona Biltmore Resort. It's a premiere community where you can live, work and play.

Central City: Including all of Downtown, this is where the action is. Here is the center of political, business and cultural life. The State Capitol, County and City governments are located here. Two sports stadiums, several music and art facilities, many large hotels plus exhibition centers are here as well. The upshot is a vibrant section of town that's busy both day and night.

Encanto Village: Uptown Phoenix is one of the choice North Downtown areas. Containing Central Avenue, here you'll find "old money" massive homes surrounding Encanto Park as well as high-rise condos and luxury apartments where many executives and professionals live.

Desert Ridge: 5,700+ acres in north Phoenix, this sprawling community provides a balance of residential villages with business complexes, resorts, shopping and entertainment development. Just minutes from Scottsdale and Cave Creek.

Moon Valley: It does look like the moon! The area sits between three mountains and surrounds a beautifully manicured golf course in north Phoenix. It's a mixed neighborhood with hillside homes, town homes and quaint, well-kept smaller houses.

South Mountain: This rural area includes both middle class and upper middle class with some industrial development. Once an agricultural, floral and farming community, it sits between South Mountain and the Maricopa Freeway.

West Valley

The sprawling and vast area that is encompassed by the West Valley, from upscale retirement amenities and emerald golf courses to the Pima cotton fields and rural atmosphere of Buckeye, to the shopping hubs and Spring Training facilities of Peoria.

Avondale: This Southwest community is the home of the Phoenix International Raceway where two of NASCAR's biggest races are held! This growing area is a mecca for families with tons of schools, activities and the newly renovated "Old Town" Avondale.

Goodyear: The city of Goodyear started in 1917 when it purchased 16,000 acres of land from the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company for the purpose of cultivating cotton. Goodyear is a booming town with employers like Lockheed Martin, the United States military and its "last stop before LA" location. Master-planned communities like Estrella Mountain Ranch and subdivisions like Palm Valley are making this area hum with upscale, family excitement.

Northeast Valley

The original high desert backdrop for western heroes and sun worshipping vacationers, the communities of the Northeast Valley have quite a fun and exciting reputation to uphold.

Carefree & Cave Creek: Experience the spirit of Arizona nestled in the Sonoran Desert. Art galleries, eclectic shops, all types of restaurants, museums, rodeos, hiking and tons of fun to be had in the Arizona desert. Cave Creek and Carefree are two great Southwest communities here in the northeast section of the Valley and prime reasons why you should move here.

Fountain Hills: Located in the McDowell Mountains is host to the world-famous Fountain Hills Fountain. The current daily height of the Fountain is estimated to be 330 feet as only two pumps operate it at any one time. Fountain Hills is a master-planned community originally founded in 1970 that offers breathtaking views of Four Peaks, great schools, close proximity to Scottsdale plus quick access to the mountain communities to the north. Fountain Hills offers an array of casual to upscale dining options, great for a night out with friends or family. For a big "night on the town" most people will venture into Scottsdale.

Scottsdale: Scottsdale is located in central Arizona, just east of Phoenix, between Carefree and Tempe. It is known for its more than 100 art galleries, specialty shops, high end shopping and golf courses. It is a popular retirement spot, tourist community and a growing mecca for the Generation X'ers. Scottsdale's nightlife is the best in the Phoenix Metropolitan area and caters to people of all ages. Outdoor enthusiasts love the McDowell Mountain Preserve where they can horseback ride, hike and tour the various desert plants, and explore Arizona's amazing desert. Come to Scottsdale and you will see why it was voted "America's Most Livable Town".

Paradise Valley: Surrounded by Scottsdale, Paradise Valley is home to some of the nicest resorts in the country with some of the best golf courses and fine dining. In Paradise Valley, multi-million dollar homes are the rule rather than the exception. And don't be surprised if you see professional athletes, rock stars or CEO's in town!

Litchfield Park: This area is known for the Wildlife World Zoo and the historic Wigwam Resort Hotel nestled into the heart of Litchfield Park. Residents love the palm tree lined streets, quaint restaurants and wine bars with large homes situated on big lots. Well maintained parks and golf courses are another benefit to living and visiting this gorgeous town.

Glendale: What a diverse community! With a historic downtown center known for its antique shops and the 5,000-employee nearby Luke Air Force Base, or the Glendale Community College....Glendale has it all! Glendale has an affordable housing market as well as good schools. Westgate Center, where you will find the state of the art stadium where the Arizona Cardinals play, is the up and coming place for night life with sports teams, restaurants, clubs, boutiques and a splash park for the kids.

Peoria: Location, Location, Location! No matter where you live in Peoria, convenience abounds! Known for its good schools, affordability, huge shopping mall and central location, Peoria is also the Mecca for Spring Training baseball.

Sun City: Built nearly 45 years ago and one of the original retirement communities! Sun City is a desirable location to purchase a home because of the low property taxes, reasonably priced homes and its location to the extensive shopping, restaurants and proximity to the freeways. These attributes, along with newly remodeled homes and recreation centers, make Sun City a value that cannot be ignored.

Sun City West: Sun City West is the premier retirement golf community in Arizona. We are a self-contained and self-governed community with recreation, shopping, places of worship, and a nationally ranked hospital too! And, don't forget your furry friends because Sun City West even has a pet park!

Surprise: There is a great diversity in people who live, work and play in the area. Whether they are looking for a family community, an active adult retirement community and everything in between, this area will provide what they are looking for. Surprise is just minutes away from the hustle and bustle of the city, but offers great Arizona desert beauty to ride horses, all terrain vehicles or just sit out on the patio and enjoy the views.

Communities

Southeast Valley

The Southeast Valley has developed into a well connected group of suburban communities. In the early days, families came into town for supplies and social gatherings, from all around this fertile agricultural area. Much of the agricultural growth in the Valley of the Sun was made possible by irrigation water from Roosevelt Dam in the early 1900's. Some of those orange groves, dairy farms and cotton fields have been transformed into these suburban enclaves filled with high tech businesses, open parkland for hundreds of leisure activities and all the modern shopping and dining amenities you would expect from growing and prosperous communities.

Chandler: Chandler has it all! People enjoy living in Chandler because it truly is an active community that is very family friendly. There are always events at local parks, libraries and in town. There is a large presence of locally-owned businesses and restaurants that give the community a small town feel and make it easy to support your neighbors. Chandler has the benefit of supporting big industry alongside residential life. Chandler is home to the high-tech businesses like Intel, Orbital Sciences, Freescale, Microchip Technology, Inc. and more. Chandler has evolved from an agricultural community into a suburban city that offers a vibrant residential life and a solid business infrastructure! And, don't forget the golf! Chandler has several golf courses that allow golfers to take advantage of the beautiful Arizona climate.

Gilbert: Gilbert has been one of the fastest growing communities in Arizona for many years and was recently voted one of the top places to live in America. The Town was established 90 years ago by local hay farmers.

Today, the Town boasts of top notch master planned communities such as Seville, Val Vista Lakes and The Islands, as well as suburban "ranchettes" with horse privileges. Gilbert has all the shopping and dining options you would expect from a growing community. Head for the original downtown area on Gilbert Road and eat at Joe's Real Arizona BBQ or the Liberty Market. San Tan Village is one of the newest Valley shopping centers offering many of the most popular shops and restaurants.

Gilbert's Town seal reads, "We the People" and this traditional, friendly community plays host annually to the Gilbert Days Parade and Rodeo as well as U.S. Constitution Week at Town Hall. With great public parks and a superb public school system, Gilbert has something for everyone.

Mesa: Founded by Mormon pioneer families on a small plateau overlooking the McDowell Mountains and the rest of the Salt River Valley, Mesa has a rich story to tell. Originally laid out in just a handful of city blocks, Mesa is currently the 3rd largest city in Arizona. Mesa is a nearby suburb of Phoenix yet offers its own atmosphere and character. Downtown Mesa, once bustling with Model T traffic, has been reborn and offers some of the Valley's best in performing arts and museums for young and old. Mesa Public Schools offers many highly rated Sports, Arts and Academic programs. Residents enjoy numerous outdoor activities from golf to tennis and softball. Mesa is also home each Cactus League Spring Training season to the Chicago Cubs professional baseball team. Mesa neighborhoods vary from the traditional suburban ranch styles of the 1950s and 1960s, to citrus grove estate homes to high desert master planned communities with incredible amenities and views for miles. Compared to some other close in cities in metropolitan Phoenix, Mesa is very affordable and could just be the area you've been searching for!

Tempe: An "All American City" and home of the Arizona State Sun Devils! People like living in Tempe for the exciting college atmosphere, urban feel, hip shops and boutiques, the active lifestyle, and sporting events from college ball to the Ironman. Tempe is just around the corner from Sky Harbor International Airport, the light rail and downtown Scottsdale. And don't forget the arts & culture scene that will captivate your senses all year long. Whether you are a college student, educator, business professional or retired, you can call Tempe home.

Queen Creek: Queen Creek offers lots of open space. This urban ranching community near the San Tan Mountains is on the move. Some of the Valley's newest master planned communities are in Queen Creek, as well as a surprising mix of upscale estate homes with acreage. Long time residents of the Town find it hard to believe all of the recent growth. It was less than a decade ago that "the QC" got its first traffic control light. This vibrant community is still a long daily commute to central Phoenix or Scottsdale, but Queen Creek is a real treasure for many new residents every year.

Medical Services

Phoenix is home to the world-famous Mayo Clinic, the Barrow Neurological Institute and the nationally recognized Phoenix Children's Hospital! The Valley has many assisted living centers with thousands of units. And coupled with the Valley's excellent medical and healthcare communities, there's a place for you here.
